ANCHOR NEWS

Judy Vineyard-Daughter Lisa is at Whitman until the 31st. We all are to leave for Georgia 3 days after Regatta for a week. Should be fun with lots of sun.

Ava Leeper-Going to Black Butte for several days to enjoy swimming, biking, horseback riding, golf and relaxation and sun. Went to Portland Beaver ba se ball game with son Kenny---Lots of fun and the Beaver's won.

Marge Backlin-Mom and sis visiting from Wisconsin. Mom's staying with us until October. Bob and I will fly her back home.

Delores Wangen-Guess who is finally working at the Danish Maid? Really like it (So much to remember!)

Jan Harrod-Will be seeing "Hello Dolly" the 24th in Portland. Spent a week in Reno in late June with my sister.

Betty Cunningham- Son James is showing a calf for the first time at the 4-H fair. Really excited. He's planning on moving down to the 4-H grounds for the week.

Kathy Peterson-I was promoted to Tupperware manager July 25th and formed my own unit now called "the Wiz kids". Got a company car, mercury marquis station wagon and becoming very spoiled. By the way, my mom, Colleen, was my #1 recruit. She never knew her full potential in life til she had Me!!! Leaving on 17th of Aug. to go to Tupperware Convention in Logan, Utah, and hope to return with news on the microwave line.

Vel Scheve-Son Eric is working in Alaska on the Woobine, a fish processing ship. He's been working 100 hours a week. We've been busy at home painting, cleaning rugs, etc. Taking small trips around Oregon when we have a spare moment.

Trisha Walters-I'm going to Graham, Wa. to see my brother and his wife, whom I've never met. I also get to see my niece and nephew whom I have never seen either. I'm really excited about this and will be back for the lawn mower races. My kids will be here for Regatta.

Evie Abrahams-Went camping in Jewell. Went on big trip to Mary's Tavern in downtown Jeffers Garden on Betty Cunningham's birthday. Great hamburgers. Anchors, Colleen Hensley and Jackie Taylor were there also.

Colleen Hensley-on vacation to Eureka to meet Paul's navy buddies. Planning another reunion. Bringing home Susan and the kids for Regatta festivities. Looking forward to a good visit.

Jeanne Pike-looking forward to being a granny for the first time in January. Doris Hughes- Attended Miss Oregon pageant with Jeanne Pike, and Irene Baltimore. Really special this year rooting for Heidi Launi. She was beautiful and really did well. We were real proud of her. Jim and I are both in boating again only on a smaller scale. Really like to fish, if only it weren't on water!

Marcy Overby-looking forward to going to Seattle for the Sea Fair, the first weekend in August.

Jo Green-A very busy summer traveling, fishing and having lot of company. Has been lots of fun.

Wilma Gray-Been job hunting. Not much luck so far.

Maggie Gil- Les and I went to Forest Grove to the antique car show. Had a picnic lunch and met some friends. Lot of fun.

Russ Johnson- Went to San Francisco for 5 days. Being crabbing this week end. Planning on going to New Orleans for 9 days in August. BEWARE OF THE HEAT. Haha!

Dee Leahy-Really excited about leading the girls in the parade again. I've got a new whistle!

Irene Baltimore-Just returned from vacation. We went to California to visit my mom and family. It was really hot (103°) also went to Reno. I left my money there for someone else to bring back home. We had a great time.

Nancy Fluhrer-Spent a couple days in Vicotia, BC with my mother and sister. Had a good time. Also visited at spots in Washington. Since then took a trip to Bremerton with husband and spent last weekend driving up the Columbia River barge, and stayed over nite at Piggs. Lots of hot weather.

Barb Zielinski-Nothing of great interest to report. Be sure to help us out at our beer and wine booth at Regatta by showing up for your shift on time.

Danette Billings-Summer at the beach is great. Aug. is busy for Holiday Marketing. After Regatta I'm off to Seattle then back for a week before heading for L.A. for market for new store Ms. Gentry.

Terri Coulombe-Been busy getting ready for Regatta. Also been spending lots of time at hospital with mother-in-law after her surgery. She should be coming home this week. With all of this, I have had lots of family company from California. Starting to feel very pregnant. Only two more months to go.

Betty Cunningham---MORE NEWS! Evie and I went up to Beaverton to visit with former anchor Jackie Taylor. Went to see "Hello Dolly" and went shopping. Went out for Chinese food and then went and toured the Pittock mansion. Had a really great time.

Frances Hansen-Busy getting ready for fair and working on Queen's luncheon. Be sure to call for reservations.

Charlen Larsen-We took our first vacation in three years! Took Eric to the Enchanted Forest in Salem and visited the Aurora Company (Colony). Ron's brother and wife are here for a two day visit. Then went up to Seattle to visit brother and his family. Went antique shopping in Snohomish and went to the ~~KIXIN~~ Woodland Park Zoo. Had lots of fun.

ASSOCIATE NEWS-

Ruth Shaner-Daughter Cheryl was married on July 2 at the Nehalem Valley Church to Donald Rowland. Had the reception rained out at Maplewood so it was quickly moved to Oney's. Had a wonderful time. Really think this new son-in-law is neat. Expecting a visit from Godchild Darby Cott, daughter of former Anchor Betty Lind Phillips from San Diego. Darby is on her way to London and then onto Saudi Arabia with hubby to work for a CPA firm for 3 years.

FLASH! Anyone planning on going to Admirals Luncheon on Thursday Aug 12 please call in your reservations to Arlie's Cafe.

LET'S HAVE A SUPER RENAISSANCE THIS YEAR GANG!

The Anchor's have fifty years of memories to recall,
So lets all get together and have an anniversary ball.
We would be remiss if we didn't reminisce
The party will be fun--you won't want to miss.

Regatta time is the highlight of our year
Anchors work so hard when August is drawing near.
The Tea, Coronation, Queen's Luncheon are well known
While working on these, our friendships have grown.

We appreciate the effort to see a job well done
Hard work and cooperation made our club what its become.
Card parties and Bingo help our budget to be met
From Christmas Fair to Auction, we haven't failed yet.

The Anchor Drum and Bugle Corps, of them we were so proud
The Anchor Honor Guard receives applause from the crowd.
We're fifty years young--good times are in store
Lets celebrate the memories and continue for fifty more.

REGATTA ROYALTY — One of these five Astoria Regatta princesses will be selected queen to reign over the celebration that runs through Sunday.

Included are Lenée Logan, Astoria (left); Kim Allen, Knappa; Tami Sturdevant, Seaside; Cassie Gramson, Warrenton; and Kathy Payton, Astoria.

Astoria's Regatta celebration under way

The Astoria Regatta celebration was to get under way Wednesday with coronation of the Regatta Queen.

The queen selection comes from among five princesses, Lenée Logan, Astoria; Kim Allen, Knappa; Tami Sturdevant, Seaside; Cassie Gramson, Warrenton and Kathy Payton, Astoria.

The festival, one of the oldest in the Northwest and founded in 1894, continues through Sunday with a number of activities.

Visiting U.S. Naval vessels arrive Thursday and the Junior Regatta Parade, the first of four parades, will wind through downtown.

Friday's events include the Arts and Crafts Fair, seafood concessions, a beer garden with live music, a dunk tank, the Twilight Boat Parade, and fireworks at dusk.

An historic homes tour takes place Saturday as do sail boat races, sports tournaments, an antique show, and the Grand Land Parade. Coast Guard rescue demonstrations will be followed by Gill-net Boat Races, bathtub races, and a Drum Corps Show.

The homes tour continues Sunday, as do sports and sailboat events. Hydroplane Races at nearby Cullaby Lake begin at 10 a.m. Sunday.

The newly-formed New Horizon Arts Council presents a production of "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off," Friday and Saturday evenings, and the carnival and seafood concessions run through Sunday.

This year many Astoria Regatta events will be under cover at the new location in the Pier 3 warehouses, to provide festival goers comfort whatever the weather.

The Daily Astorian—MICHAEL HINSDALE

Ready for Regatta

Andy Korhonen of the Astoria JayCees brushed chipped paint from a lamppost at the Flavel House Museum Wednesday evening in preparation for painting. He and five other JayCees rolled up their sleeves to spruce up the museum for Astoria Regatta visitors. Cox Cable Lower Columbia helped with the volunteer project by supplying a crane and other tools.

The Flavel House Museum Rose Garden will be dedicated in a ceremony at 3 p.m. Friday. The dedication is open to the public.

USS Implicit to arrive Wednesday

The USS Implicit HSO 455 will arrive in Astoria Wednesday afternoon August 10 to join in the 1983 Astoria Regatta activities.

The Implicit was in Astoria for the 1981 Regatta and had requested to return because of the hospitality they received the last time they were here.

The Implicit is an ocean going minesweeper built in the early 1950s. Home-ported in Tacoma, it is constructed mostly of wood and the machinery is made of brass, aluminum and stainless steel. It is powered by four Packard diesel engines and has a top speed of about 15 knots.

The captain of the Implicit is Lieutenant Commander Thomas Baker, who began his career in the U.S. Navy after graduating from officer candidate school 1971.

The officers and men of the Implicit will be involved in many Regatta activities, as guests and as workers. They also are building a special navy Bathtub Racer for this year's event. According to Public Information Officer Tom Carroll, they plan to make up for the first round loss in a borrowed Bathtub Racer in 1981.

The Implicit is planning an open house for the public while in port for the Regatta.

Naval and Coast Guard ships will be berthed near Pier 3, and each ship will have an open house during the festivities.

Summer royalty chosen carefully

After appearing in numerous parades around the state, the Astoria Regatta Princess seem to be at ease with their roles.

But becoming a princess did not happen over night. Area girls completed applications, submitted photos and participated in extensive interviews before the final five princesses were selected.

How is a Regatta princess chosen out of the many talented and beautiful senior girls?

First the girls are informed of the process in each of their respective high schools, and those interested, complete applications. These applications, along with a personal photo are returned to the high school office.

Then, Regatta Association princess committee members hold interviews with the contestants from Astoria, Warrenton, Seaside, and Knappa.

The girls are judged for various qualities which they may or may not possess including: attitude and enthusiasm about becoming a

Regatta princess; various personal characteristics such as poise, speech, personality, conversational initiative, maturity, appearance, and availability. The girls are scored following the interview, then each give speeches and the girls are judged for delivery, poise, expression, etc.

Becoming a Regatta princess is no easy task and maintaining the initial enthusiasm and dedication to the Regatta is a pre-requisite for any girl entertaining the desires to try out for a taste of royalty when she becomes a senior in highschool.

The girls rarely have had a weekend free during the summer as they have attended parades throughout the state, made public appearances, met at various local engagements, and prepared themselves for the Regatta celebrations.

One of these hardworking princesses will be selected to reign as Queen throughout the Regatta celebration August 10-14.

Subject: Regatta Judge

Hi!

This is probably more than you ever wanted to know.

Grew to maturity on a Nebraska farm....that's about as far from the ocean and regattas as you can get. Land Lubber.

Radio pioneer. Twenty-five years in broadcasting.....1941 to 1966. Announcing, sales, program direction, then to management and in the ownership arena.

Director and producer of the Oregon Dairy Princess Contest (pageant) annually since 1961.

Executive Secretary of the Commission since 1965....directly in charge of all research, advertising, merchandising and public relations for all the dairy farmers of Oregon. Mainly concerned with the production and placement of all radio, television, newspaper and outdoor advertising for milk and milk products in the state.

Married (Millie), three children: Craig (Walker) morning man on KGW, Portland; Christie Taylor (husband, Rick) producer/director of KATU-TV Channel 2, Portland....and daughter Connie, currently employed at Mt. McKinley National Park in Alaska.

There is very little possibility that I can stay over on the night of the 10th.....however, I sincerely appreciate your plan and effort in the matter. It can be finally determined when I arrive just before noon on the 10th.

Like I stated.....MORE.....than you really wanted to know.

Wishing you a beautiful day,

EXPERIENCE

SAFeway STORES, INC. (Confidential, please)
Portland, Oregon
1979 to Present

Title: PUBLIC RELATIONS MANAGER

Responsibilities:

- Liaison between, and spokesperson, for 94 retail Safeway Stores and media.
- Supervised and directed Customer Service Department for 94 Safeway Stores in Oregon.
- Developed and administered Public Relations activities budget for division and store level donations.
- Enhanced Safeway's corporate visibility and corporate consciousness within the state through cooperative working relationships with educational, civic, minority, youth, agricultural and social organizations.
- Developed innovative and successful employment opportunity programs for handicapped individuals.
- Developed and implemented the first "in-store" food purchasing educational "tools" for Southeast Asian refugee population (WIC - Women, Infants and Children - a federally funded food assistance program).
- Initiated, developed and introduced first statewide food banking network program linking 94 Safeway retail stores with local helping agencies in conjunction with Governor Atiyeh's Oregon Food Share Program.
- Researched, developed and directed grand opening ceremonies for retail stores . . . (program, theme, dignitaries, news releases, etc.).
- Developed and circulated press packets statewide for new products introduced by Safeway Supply Division. Releases used as a model for other divisions throughout United States.

Outstanding Achievements

- "Employer of the Year" — 1982 Recognized by Governor's Steering Committee on Employment of the Handicapped for Safeway's successful integration of handicapped individuals employed within retail and supply divisions.
- "Safeway Buns on the Run" — Co-authored, developed and implemented the Safeway Corporation's first in-house employee health and fitness center — with special emphasis on cardio-vascular improvement and stress management.

Program served as a model for other Safeway Divisions throughout the nation to implement "Buns on the Run" Chapters; which ultimately led to national recognition and a Presidential Commendation from the President's Council on Health and Fitness.

Regatta coronation tonight

Ready for duty on the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Yocona are, from left to right, 1983 Astoria Regatta Princesses Kim Allen, Kathy Payton, Cassie Gramson, Tami Sturdevant and Lenee Logan. The annual celebration opened today for a five-day run. A queen to reign over the festival will be crowned in a ceremony at the Clatsop Community College Performing Arts Center, 16th Street and Franklin Avenue, at 8 tonight. A reception at the Columbia River Maritime Museum will follow the coronation. Both events are open to the public.

The Daily Astorian—MICHAEL HINSDALE

Regatta royalty

1982 Astoria Regatta Queen Stephanie Bott Murray, left, passes the Regatta crown to Kathy Payton, an Astoria High School graduate selected Wednesday to reign over this week's Astoria Regatta celebration.

Miss Payton, 18, and Princesses Cassie Gramson, Warrenton, Lenee Logan, Astoria, Kim Allen, Knappa, and Tami Sturdevant, Seaside, discussed their experiences as members of the Astoria Regatta court in speeches before a capacity crowd at the Clatsop Community College Performing Arts Center Wednesday night.

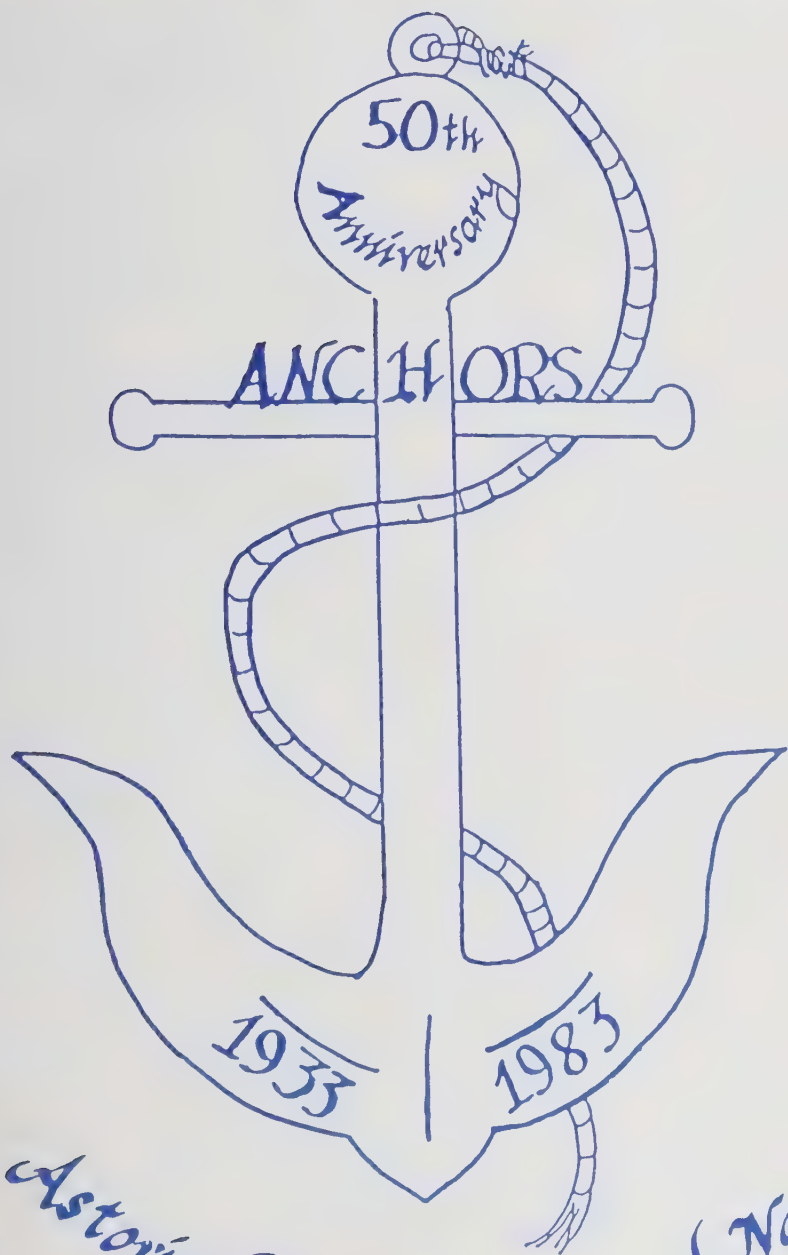

Before being crowned 1983 queen, Miss Payton and her court heard Regatta Admiral Tom McDonald, prince regent of the Royal Rosarians of Portland, extend a special greeting from Portland Mayor Frank Ivancie. McDonald said his acquaintances on the North Coast have made him feel like a "fellow Astorian."

Today, Miss Payton, daughter of Everett and Mary Payton, and her court began a busy schedule that will include the Astoria Kiwanis Club-sponsored Astoria Regatta Junior Parade at 7 tonight in downtown Astoria. Participating children should be at the U.S. National Bank parking lot at 10th and Exchange streets between 6 and 6:30 p.m. for judging. Related stories, Page 4.

1983 QUEEN'S LUNCHEON PROGRAM

Chairwoman
Frances Hansen

Opening

Welcome to the 1983 Regatta Queen's Luncheon.

My name is Frances Hansen, Chairwoman of this luncheon. The Astoria Anchor Club has sponsored a queen and court for the annual Astoria Regatta since 1934. This has been a long and pleasant association and has resulted in many luncheons such as this one today, and many memories for members of our audience. We are happy you could join us for this important Regatta function as we honor the 1983 Queen and her court.

The Skipper of the Anchor Club has a big part in the success of this annual celebration, and I would like to introduce our 1983 Anchor Skipper Carlotta Strandberg.

Kids' parade tonight in Astoria

Activities at the Pacific Northwest's oldest festival, the 1983 Astoria Regatta, will continue through Sunday at Pier 3 in Astoria.

A wide variety of arts and crafts and food booths (including a salmon barbecue) are on hand.

Several U.S. Navy and Coast Guard ships are berthed near Pier 3 and are available for public tours.

A children's parade will wind its way through the downtown area today, Aug. 11, at 7 p.m. The Regatta Twilight Boat Parade is on tap for Friday with a 7 p.m. start, and the Grand Land Parade, with many band floats and equestrian entries, is set for Saturday at 1 p.m. Following the parade, floats will be on review at the Clatsop County Fairgrounds in conjunction with a fish feed.

Fireworks will light the sky Friday at dusk, stretching from the Maritime Museum to Pier 3.

On Saturday evening, a drum and bugle corp competition will take place, as will the Budweiser Cup Grand Land Bathub Races, tricycle races and much more.

Cullaby Lake will host Sunday's hydroplane races, under the sponsorship of the Astoria Jaycees.

For more information call the Astoria Chamber of Commerce at 325-6311.

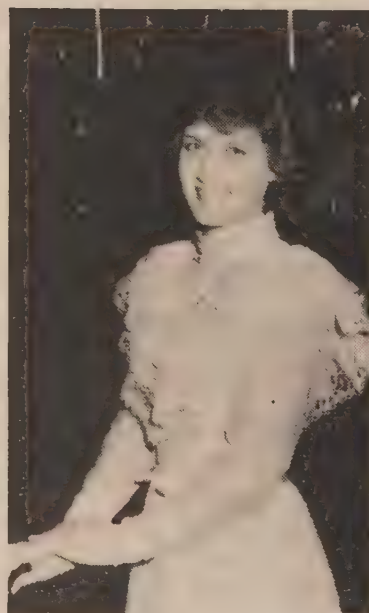

Individuals interested in entering a boat in the Astoria Regatta Parade should attend an organizational meeting at the Astoria Library Flag Room at 7:30 p.m. The rules of the parade as well as participation plaques will be presented at this time. A skipper or representative of each boat must be present at the meeting.

Saturday's Grand Land Parade will be telecast on Cox Cable Channel 7 on Monday, Aug. 15, at 7 p.m. Bob Dunton will film the event, while Seaside's KSWB will provide the commentary.

Astoria Regatta moves to port

The 1983 Astoria Regatta can be held in and around the Port of Astoria Pier 3 covered warehouse, port commissioners decided Tuesday.

Reserving the right to cancel the agreement if movement of cargo makes it unworkable, commissioners informally acceded to a request from the Regatta Association to hold the annual waterfront festival at Pier 3 Aug. 10-14. The pier will be the site of the arts and crafts fair, food booths, commercial exhibits, beer garden and evening entertainment, association President Michael Lynch explained in a letter to port acting manager Steve Felkins. Regatta Association members would be responsible for cleanup, Lynch's letter said.

"That seems like the appropriate place to have it," Felkins told commissioners. When commission Chairman Nick Zafiratos asked what would happen if a shipment of cargo had to be stored in the portion of the warehouse that the association hopes to use, Felkins said the association is "willing to take that chance."

The Regatta was held last year mostly in a parking lot bounded by Ninth, 10th and Astor streets and Marine Drive. But that area had little room for parking, once the lot was covered with carnival rides and other amusements. Pier 3, by contrast, has a huge adjacent paved area, designed as a containerized cargo yard, which is suitable for parking, as well as traditional Regatta tricycle and bathtub races.

The Regatta will be held in part of the south end of the warehouse, which is controlled directly by the port, not the north end, which is leased to Waterway Terminals, a unit of Crown Zellerbach Corp. The Waterway Terminals portion of the warehouse was the site of the second annual Great Astoria Crab Feed and Seafood Festival March 26-27, which drew 16,000 people. Lack of restrooms was a problem during the crab feed, Felkins noted, despite the presence of portable toilets.

The south end of the pier has but two "archaic" restrooms, Felkins said. He suggested that the Regatta Association levy a parking fee of 25 cents a car for the port to use in upgrading those facilities.

Commissioner Howard Johnson strongly opposed charging for parking at Regatta, saying, "This (lot) belongs to the public." But Commissioner Roy Niemi countered by noting that admission will be charged to the Regatta itself.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 18, 1983

Regatta plans

The 1983 Astoria Regatta, which dates from 1894 and is the oldest festival in the Pacific Northwest, commences Wednesday evening, August 10, with the selection and coronation of a queen, according to Chuck Walters, a director of the Astoria Regatta Association.

Regatta festivities have traditionally been centered in a square block of downtown Astoria, but this year will be moved to the cover. Paved parking at Pier 3 is free and practically unlimited. Pier 3 activities Friday, Saturday and Sunday include the Pirates Den beer garden, at least 20 different food booths and many arts and crafts displays.

Pier 3 will also be the scene of the carnival, and the Land-Bound Bathtub Race, in which two contestants push a bathtub on wheels with one driver. This will be held on a race track right alongside Pier 3. The Thursday evening Kiddies Parade will still move through downtown streets.

Six bands are already signed up for the Drum & Bugle Drum-Off, with nine bands signed up for the Grand Land Parade. A salmon barbeque is also featured.

This year's admiral is Tom McDonald, Portland Rosarian Prime Minister in 1982.

The musical, "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off," will be presented during the Regatta on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at the Performing Arts Center in Astoria.

Climaxing the events will be the hydroplane races at Cullaby Lake.

For further information, one may call or write the Astoria Chamber of Commerce, Box 176, Astoria, or phone 325-6311.

Regatta tops list of weekend events

The North Coast is the place to be this weekend for those looking for something to do.

Tonight, a waterfront twilight boat parade and fireworks display over the Columbia River highlight the third day of the five-day Astoria Regatta. The festival continues through Sunday, with a food and craft fair at the Port of Astoria's Pier 3, a 1 p.m. Saturday land parade, an all-day antique show Saturday at Astoria High School, a 7 p.m. Saturday drum and bugle corps competition, sailboat races and Sunday hydroplane racing at Cullaby Lake.

One of the entries in the Astoria Regatta Grand Land Parade, the Oregon Jazz Band, will offer a series of performances in the area this weekend. The group is scheduled to play tonight from 6:30 to 7:30 at the Astoria Elks Lodge, 8 to 9 at Sunset Empire Room in Astoria and 10 to 1 at Astoria Moose Lodge. Besides the parade Saturday, the jazz band will play 4 to 6 p.m. at Pier 3 at an Astoria Rotary Club salmon feed and 8 to 9 p.m. at the Sunset Empire Room.

Music also is on tap 3 p.m. Sunday at Tapiola Park in Astoria as the North Coast Symphonic Band presents its final concert of its summer outdoor season. The concert is free and will be held at Astoria High School if it rains.

Music of a different sort will be offered 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday when the second Hammond Grand Toot and Steam Fair takes place at the Bioproducts Inc. parking lot, Northwest Warrenton Drive at the Hammond town line. Rare historic marine and railroad steam whistles will pierce the air. Spectators may bring their own whistles to join in the show.

For the theatrically minded, New Horizon Arts Council's Northcoast Repertory Theatre has performances of "Stop the World, I want to Get Off" scheduled for 8 tonight and 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the Clatsop Community College Performing Arts Center in Astoria. In Cannon Beach, the PSU Players will present "Bedroom Farce" 8:30 tonight and Saturday and 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Coaster Theater.

The 18th Seaside Beach Run is scheduled noon Saturday on the beach off the Turnaround. The seven-mile main event will be preceded by shorter runs, beginning at 11 a.m.

Regatta festivities begin

The Pacific Northwest's oldest festival, the 1983 Astoria Regatta, will be held August 10-14 at Pier 3 in Astoria Oregon. Arts and crafts and food booths, including many different seafood delicacies, will be on hand. A salmon barbeque will also be featured.

Many naval and Coast Guard ships will be berthed near Pier 3, and each ship will have an open house during the festivities.

Among other events, three different parades are scheduled. They include a children's parade on Thursday, August 11, a boat parade, Friday, August 12, and the Grand Land Parade on Saturday, August 13, with many bands, floats, and equestrian entries. Fireworks on the Columbia are set for Friday evening at dusk. There will be a Drum & Bugle Corp competition held Saturday evening, as well as the Budweiser Cup Grand Land Bathtub Races, tricycle races and many more events. The festivities will be off with Sunday's Hydroplane races at Cullaby Lake.

If you would like more information about the 1983 Astoria Regatta call the Astoria Chamber of Commerce 503-325-6311 or see the special section about the Regatta in this week's Columbia Press.

Regatta booths open for foods, arts and crafters

Local organizations and businesses are invited to join in the 1983 Astoria Regatta by putting in a food booth or a commercial exhibit. Local arts and crafters are invited to display their wares. There is a minimum charge for booth space.

"This is an opportunity for organizations to raise funds and artists to get exposure and sell their works. Of course the more that participate the better the show for everyone involved," said Cathy Camp, publicity chairman.

The Astoria Regatta Association is encouraging food booths to concentrate on seafoods to depict our local area. However, there will be no duplication of foods.

Have a favorite you want to dunk?

A dunk tank at the Astoria Regatta Association's Regatta Square will offer visitors a chance to throw baseballs at a variety of people, including a school superintendent, a police officer and local merchants.

Regatta Square, an area of more than 80 food, craft and commercial booths and a beer garden and dance, opens 11 a.m. Friday at the Port of Astoria's Pier 3 and continues through Sunday.

For a fee, visitors can throw baseballs at a target that, if hit, will send the person sitting atop the dunk tank crashing into the tank of water. Proceeds go to the Astoria Regatta Association to help pay for the festival.

Here is the dunk tank schedule:

Regatta swim meet set

The Astoria Regatta Invitational Swim Meet gets under way at 9 a.m. Saturday at the YMCA pool.

Sanctioned by Oregon-USA Swimming, the meet is open to swimmers through age 18.

All competitors must have current registration with the USAS.

Awards will be given for first through eighth places in individual events and first through fourth in relays.

Warmup for swimmers age 12 and under begins at 8 a.m. with 13-and-up swimmers beginning warmups at 8:30 a.m.

For more information, contact Mike Lemmo at 325-7047.

House tours tickets on sale

Tickets are now available for public tours of three Victorian homes and a historic church during the Astoria Regatta.

Open 1-4 p.m. Aug. 13-14 will be the John Hobson house, 469 Bond St., the Charles Page home, 1393 Franklin Ave., the Benjamin Young house, 3652 Duane St., and First Presbyterian Church, 1103 Grand Ave. The Hobson house was built in 1863, the Page house in 1879, the Young home in 1888 and the church in 1903.

The historic buildings tour is a project of the Clatsop County Historical Society. Tour prices are $5 for the three houses and the church or $2 for a single location. Tickets for the full tour will be available at the Flavel House Museum, 441 Eighth St., Astoria. Single admission tickets will be sold at each location on tour days. For advance tickets, write to the Clatsop County Heritage Center, 1608 Exchange St., Astoria.

Regatta window decorating requested

Astoria merchants have been asked by the Regatta Association to again join in the Regatta tradition of decorating their shop windows. This year's Regatta will be August 10 through 14.

Traditionally at Regatta time the Astoria Merchants join in the festivities by decorating their windows in that year's Regatta theme. This year the merchants face a real challenge in following the theme of 1983 Regatta, "Then and Now Drums Along The Columbia."

Downtown windows will be judged by the Regatta Court Wednesday, Aug. 10 with awards for best decorated windows to be presented that evening during the coronation ceremonies at the Performing Arts Center.

With a contingent of the Portland Royal Rosarians coming, the Astoria Regatta Association is asking that all Astoria Merchants show the Rosarians and other visitors to our area, their support of the Regatta by encouraging their employees to dress in blue and white on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of Regatta Week.

Everyone in the community can show their support by dressing in blue and white throughout the festival. Past Regatta and Anchor members are asked to wear their uniforms.

Regatta window decorations have 'Then and Now' theme

Astoria merchants entered in the Astoria Regatta Association's merchants' window-decorating contest this year are to design their displays following the 1983 festival theme, "Then and Now: Drums Along the Columbia."

Decorated windows will be judged the first day of the five-day festival, Aug. 10, by the five Regatta princesses. Contest awards will be presented during the queen's coronation ceremony that night at the Clatsop Community College Performing Arts Center in Astoria.

In addition to the window-decorating contest, the Astoria Regatta Association is asking downtown merchants to encourage their employees to wear blue and white Aug. 11-13 to show visitors a unified community spirit such as was evident in Regatta celebrations of the early years. Visitors to this year's Regatta include a contingent of the Portland Royal Rosarians, an association spokeswoman said.

Ter Har's wins contest

Ter Har's, 1117 Commercial St., is the winner of the 1983 Astoria Regatta Merchants' window-decorating contest.

The 1983 Astoria Regatta court judged the window displays. Ter Har's will keep a traveling trophy that comes with the award for a year.

Also presented last week was a special award to Marlene Mestrich, who Astoria Regatta Association President Michael Lynch said had demonstrated exceptional support of the annual celebration in many ways, but particularly in window displays at Chris's News, 1412 Commercial St.

Lynch said participation in the window decorating contest was above average this year. He said it was part of renewed interest in the festival that has been demonstrated by widespread community support for the non-profit association that organizes the five-day festival.

Regatta to hold a real tub race

That old bathtub waiting to be thrown away could prove useful, valuable even, in the 1983 Regatta Grand Land Bathtub Race Aug. 13,

New rules for the Astoria Regatta event, in which cash prizes are awarded, require that race entries be constructed of something actually used as a bathtub, race organizers said. The race will be 5 p.m. Aug. 13 at the Port of Astoria's Pier 3.

Operators of the best-looking bathtub entered in the race will receive a $50 prize. Operators of the second-best-looking bathtub will get a case of Budweiser beer. Overall championship honors will carry a $50 prize. First place in the men's and women's divisions will be $25 and a trophy, second place $15 and a trophy and third place $7.50 and a trophy.

Bathtub racing machines must have three or more wheels in contact with the ground, must have operable steering and brake systems controlled by the driver and must pass a safety inspection. Theme decorations are optional.

A bathtub racing team will consist of three members, all of which will drive and push some time on the course, racing rules stipulate. The drivers will be furnished with a life jacket that must be fully fastened before the drivers leave the starting line and after each role change. All team members must sign an injury waiver before competing. Alternates, to be used in case of injuries to regular team members, will be accepted only if they are registered before the race begins, race officials said.

The race course will be 150 to 200 yards long with a minimum of three obstacles to be run. The course will include two driver change zones, where one of the two pushers and the driver must exchange places. The course will be open for inspection and practice runs 5-7 p.m. Aug. 12.

Teams of men and women will compete separately and then race for the overall championship if at least five teams register in each division, race officials said.

The registration fee for the race is $5 per team member without a Regatta button and $3 per team member with a button. For information, call Chuck Walters, 325-2911.

Hang gliding featured at Regatta Square

Featured exhibitor at the Astoria Regatta Association's Regatta Square this weekend will be Dean Caldwell, former rock climber and ice climber and a free-flight expert.

Caldwell will exhibit several hang gliders and a motorized variation of the glider known as an "ultralite" aircraft at Regatta Square, located at Pier 3 at the Port of Astoria Friday, Saturday and Sunday. He will demonstrate how the equipment works.

Caldwell gained national attention in 1970 when he and Warren Harding completed a 3,000-foot climb up El Capitan's Wall of Early Morning Light in Yosemite National Park. In 1971, Caldwell topped the 1970 rock climb with an ice climb on Peru's 21,000-foot Mount Jirishanka, a climb some experts said couldn't be done.

Now, Caldwell has abandoned rock and ice climbing in favor of flight. He has his own flight-related business, Hang Glider Aeronautics.

Despite a serious hang gliding accident in 1980, Caldwell, 39, maintains that hang gliding isn't dangerous if the person operating the hang glider knows what he is doing.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF

Rose garden dedication set

A highlight of this year's Astoria Regatta celebration will be the opening of the Regatta Rose Garden at the Flavel House Museum in Astoria.

The garden, which will be behind the historic Flavel house at 441 Eighth St., will be dedicated in a 3 p.m. Aug. 12 ceremony, the third day of the five-day Astoria Regatta. Donations are being accepted to pay for garden plantings.

When the house was constructed in 1883-84, the Victorian mansion was surrounded by a formal garden boasting plants and flowers from around the world. The rose garden is part of a continued restoration program at the museum, which is owned by Clatsop County government and operated by the Clatsop County Historical Society. It was built by Capt. George Flavel.

The Astoria Regatta Association will plant an array of Golden Salute roses to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Astoria Anchor Club, a support organization of the association. Centennial roses will be planted initially to observe the 100th anniversary of the Flavel house's construction. Many of those plantings already are being done so that at least part of the garden will be in bloom for the Aug. 12 ceremony. During the dedication ceremony, the Royal Rosarians of the Portland Rose Festival will plant the Diamond Jubilee rose, a gift to the Astoria Regatta Association in commemoration of the Portland Rose Festival's 75th year. The Royal Rosarians have been assisting the Astoria Regatta Association throughout the year.

To sponsor the planting of a rose bush in the Flavel House Museum garden, send $10 per bush to Regatta Rose Garden, c/o Clatsop County Historical Museum, 441 8th St., Astoria.

Regatta Fireworks

Fireworks money needed

The Astoria Regatta Association has about half the money it needs to pay for its fireworks display last Friday night off the Port of Astoria, President Michael Lynch said Tuesday. Fireworks are the most costly aspect of the Regatta.

The display cost about $2,000 — although it was the equivalent of a $3,000 show — and the association has about $1,000 in donations to pay for it, Lynch said. Reports that the association has only about $300 in fireworks cash are based on a misconception: that's the amount raised in coin boxes on display in businesses around town. However, other donations also have been made toward the fireworks, Lynch said.

Those coin boxes will remain in local businesses until Friday; checks may be made payable to the Astoria Regatta Fireworks Fund and mailed to Box 24, Astoria 97103.

"We are getting widespread support, but we have to have one hell of a lot of justification for (the fireworks show) to continue" in future years, Lynch said.

Support needed for Regatta

Columbia Press, August 3, 1893

fireworks display

The Astoria Regatta Association is seeking public support for the fireworks display that is to be part of 1983 Regatta festivities.

The biggest crowd-pleaser of the 1982 Regatta was the fireworks over the Columbia, and was made possible through the donations of the community and local businesses.

Although the fireworks over the Columbia are being planned for this year, the fireworks display is the biggest single expense the Association faces. Therefore the Regatta Association again this year is asking the community for support by donating to the fireworks fund. Throughout the community, in stores and taverns, there are cans where people can make donations.

Those who wish to make contributions directly may make checks payable to Astoria Regatta Fireworks Fund and mail to Astoria Regatta Association, P.O. Box 24, Astoria Oregon 97103.

The fireworks over the Columbia is scheduled for Friday August 12 at dusk, from Pier 2.

Regatta fireworks planned

A crowd-pleaser from the 1982 Astoria Regatta — a fireworks display over the Columbia River — will be repeated this year with the help of donations, the Astoria Regatta Association has announced.

A fund-raising drive to support the fireworks display has begun. Donation cans have been distributed to several local businesses. Direct contributions may be mailed to the association, P.O. Box 24, Astoria. Checks should be made payable to the Astoria Regatta Fireworks Fund.

The fireworks show will follow a dusk waterfront boat parade Aug. 12, the third day of the five-day Astoria Regatta celebration. The fireworks will be launched from a barge floating in the river.

Community support helped initiate the fireworks display last year, an association spokeswoman said. The show costs about $3,000 to produce, the largest single expense the association incurs in putting on the festival.

First Anchor members lead parade

Charter members of the Astoria Anchor Club, an auxiliary to the Astoria Regatta Association, will be grand marshals for the Astoria Regatta Grand Land Parade Saturday.

The surviving charter members were selected to lead the parade in honor of the 50th anniversary of the club's founding. Parade marshals will be Ethel Mae Winters of Seaside and Sylvia Vaughn, Olga Henningsen, Freda Englund and Nora Johnson of Astoria.

About 75-100 entries will participate in the parade, which begins at 1 p.m. at the corner of Seventh Street and West Marine Drive. The parade will proceed east on Commercial Street and end at the Clatsop County Fairgrounds.

Before the parade procession begins, a helicopter from the U.S. Coast Guard's Air Station Astoria will make a low pass over the parade route.

One of the more popular entries in the parade, according to Co-director

Monica Hutchens, is the Li'l Senoritas drill team from Seattle, a 30-member group composed of girls 8-14 years dressed in costumes with a Spanish motif.

Other out-of-town entries include:

—The Lewis and Clark Fife and Drum Corps from Portland, featuring martial music and close order drills.

—The Portland Civic Band, a 100-member marching band that last year won the Queen's Trophy in the Regatta Grand Land Parade. Members of the Portland Royal Rosarians will march as an honor guard for the band.

—An honor guard from the U.S. Navy minesweeper USS Implicit, which will be docked at Port of Astoria Pier 3 during Regatta.

—A one-third scale train float entered by Burlington Northern Railroad. Local Burlington Northern employees will operate the float, which features an engine, car and caboose.

—Band of the Pacific Northwest, a 38-member marching band from McChord Air Force Base near Tacoma, Wash.

Local entries in the parade will include the Astoria Hayshakers, Astoria clowns, Astoria Girl Scouts, Clatsop Community College, the Philadelphia Church of Hammond and Captain Cidd's Castle, a children's TV program produced at Clatsop Community College. Floats from several Astoria businesses and some antique fire engines also will be featured in the parade.

Among the antique fire engines will be a 1918 Stutz restored only recently by the Astoria Fire Department. The old fire truck, complete with leather hose nozzles, hasn't run in about 15 years, firemen said. The antique entry will precede one of the department's newer engines in the parade line-up, following the Regatta five-year theme "Then and Now."

First-place trophies will be awarded in 16 divisions, Ms. Hutchens said. That doesn't include the Sweepstakes Trophy, which is awarded to the overall point winner, and the Queen's Trophy, which goes to her choice. Ribbons will be awarded to second-place finishers and honorable mentions will be given for other entries.

Organizing the parade requires its directors to attend a number of other parades in Oregon and Washington to seek out entrants, Ms. Hutchens said.

"It takes a whole year to put it together," she said. The parade (this year) ends at 4 p.m. Saturday and we have to start on the next one then."

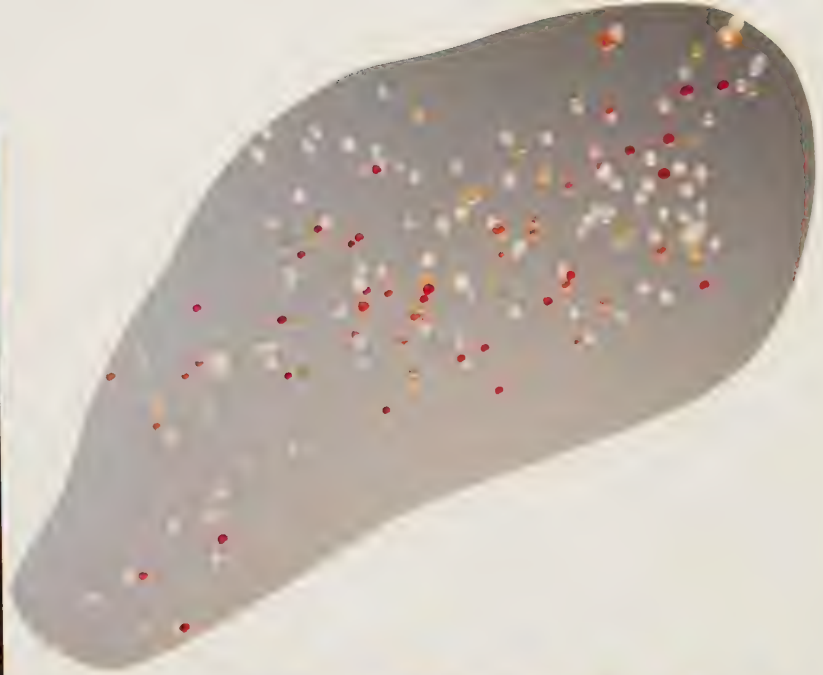

The Regatta Association will construct a motorized float for use on the parade circuit next year, Ms. Hutchens said. That will ultimately mean that the Regatta Grand Land Parade will be larger in succeeding years.

"When we build a motorized float, we will be invited to some of the larger festivals and parades around the Northwest through the Northwest Festival Association. Other members will reciprocate and will come to Astoria with their bands and floats, all at no cost."

Shows need for multi-use site, president says

By JAMES HOLMAN
Of the Daily Astorian

The 1983 Astoria Regatta underscored a lesson learned during a March seafood festival, Regatta Association President Mike Lynch said today: Astoria needs a multi-use facility for such celebrations.

"No ifs, ands and buts, it was a tremendous success," Lynch said of the five-day festival that ended Sunday. With weather made to order for the many outdoor activities, the Regatta drew "well over 10,000 people," Lynch said. Many were out-of-towners who filled the city's motels and kept restaurants and shops busy.

And if crowds like that continue for Astoria's major celebrations — Regatta, the Scandinavian Midsummer Festival and the Great Astoria Crab and Seafood Festival — the need for a facility in which to hold them will become even greater, he said. Moving the Regatta Square booths, carnivals and beer garden, as well as many of the events, to the Port of Astoria's Pier 3 warehouse and parking lot this year worked well, with only a few minor problems, Lynch said.

BUT PIER 3 may not be available after this year, because part of it already has been leased to a Morrison-Knudsen Co. Inc. subsidiary. Lynch said he would recommend that the association's "long-term focus" be on getting a multi-use facility for Astoria's burgeoning festivals. Yet the lack of space means the events are drawing crowds, and that's the kind of problem Lynch doesn't mind. "When the complaints are that there's not enough elbow room, I'm not too worried."

A number of the events drew what apparently were record crowds, although accurate statistics are hard to come by.

An expanded Grand Land parade on Saturday had people standing four and five deep on several blocks of downtown Astoria. The 1½-hour parade drew about 90 entrants. The Queen's Trophy, selected by 1983 Regatta Queen Kathy Payton, went to The Dutch Cup Restaurant of Astoria. The Sweepstakes Trophy, selected by judges, went to the Spartans drum and bugle corps from Vancouver, Wash.

The Friday night fireworks display off Pier 2 drew a huge crowd. Astoria police Cmdr. Pat Codd said more than 3,000 cars were counted leaving the port area after the fireworks. "We had a real traffic problem."

A set piece lighted during the display provided a spectacular salute to the Astoria Anchor Club, which is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year. The Anchors also were honored in Friday's rose garden dedication at the Flavel House Museum, along with longtime Clatsop County Historical Society volunteer Mae Miller.

THIS YEAR'S NEW event, the Regatta-Rama drum and bugle corps competition held at John Warren Field Saturday night, also drew a sizeable audience, Lynch said. The Spartans of Vancouver, Wash., captured first place and The Cascades of Salem second place.

"That was a very professional show, something you don't have a chance to see except in Portland or Seattle usually," Lynch said. He plans to recommend that the event be included next year.

The popular bathtub races, sponsored by Budweiser this year, drew a crowd of 400-500, organizers estimated. The Ocean Foods men's team won first in their division and then held off women's division winner and 1982 champion Josephson's to capture the championship. John's Chevron took second and the USS Implicit third in the men's division; Ocean Foods took second and KBKN-FM third in women's competition. The Implicit won the most beautiful bathtub award.

In the Friday night boat parade, Odyssey, owned by Richard Fischer, and Air Raid, owned by Al Staley and Bill Lind, won the best decorated sailboat award. Petra B, owned by Rolly Broadwell, won the best-decorated power boat award. Saturday's predicted log power boat race was won by Ron Collman in Spartan.

SATURDAY AND SUNDAY'S sailboat races were won by the SS Beaver, a Portland Sea Scout 29-foot ketch skipped by Rich Stephens. Grins, skippered by Dave French of Portland, won second; Odyssey won third; and Barnstormer, owned by Dr. Michael Barnes, took fourth.

Pacific Power & Light Co.'s Astoria office held on to its title in the "Regatta 500" adult tricycle race, beating four other three-person teams.

A tour of three historic Victorian homes and a historic church drew about 300 people, organizer Bruce Berney said. The Benjamin Young house, owned by Harry Swanson, drew 267 people during the two-day tour. The money will benefit the Clatsop Historical Society. Berney said the society was seeking other houses for future tours.

In the Regatta button drawing, Jack Beelar of Astoria won a weekend for two at Kah-Nee-Ta resort and $100. Gene Bennet of Astoria won two tickets to a Portland Trail Blazers basketball game and $50. Brian Borton of Astoria won a flight over Mount St. Helens with Astoria Flight Service.

REGATTA SQUARE ITSELF, set up inside Pier 3, drew steady crowds all three days it was open, Lynch said. "There were some booths that did fantastic, some did not so well." But arranging the food booths around centrally located tables proved an excellent idea, he said. "Some people stayed in that area for two hours, just sampling everything."

The Pirate's Den and beer garden had elbow to elbow crowds Friday and Saturday night.

Even the carnival, although a disappointment to some because it was smaller than last year's, did well, Lynch said. He will suggest that it be moved to the front of the Regatta Square entrance if the festival is held at Pier 3 again next year, he said. That will free up parking along the west side of the building.
